

Murder at Paradise Village – The Cast

George Remaley as Richard Boone, The chauffeur

A sixty-something man who has an air of quiet class about him. He is not afraid to speak up but he is always reserved and dignified.

Bill Finkelstein as Michael Appledorn, The CNN Reporter

Michael is a very easy-going person. He is thirty-something. He is not someone who worries what other people think or say about him. He treats everyone as an equal, even those who think they're above him.

Linda Gayle as Countess Lola Lamour, The Countess

The Countess is a very excitable and nervous person in her sixties. She is never shy about offering her opinion. Her family fortune was made in batteries. She always avoids the question when people ask where she is from but her accent is French.

Jenny Pritzus as Taylor Evans, The Supermodel

Taylor is used to having men fall all over her. She knows she's stunningly beautiful but has the good grace not to say it. She always carries herself as if she's on the runway, always on display. She is in her early twenties.

Don Von Tres as Wade Gartner, The Lodge Manager

In his early forties he carries himself with self-assurance. He is confident and talkative but a little eccentric. He is very professional in his dealings with people

Elizabeth Shanahan as Rhonda Lyons, The chambermaid

Rhonda's overall character is negative. She is constantly seeing the glass as half empty. She is cynical, rude and shrewish. Nobody is safe from her tongue. She is in her early forties.
